

PROFILE

Hey there digital skill seeker. I'm Christian, a Design Department Head with 15 years industry experience working with top global brands. I have a Bachelor's degree in Interactive Design with first-class honours and a Master's degree in Creative Technologies with distinction.

I've led the design of several large online applications for the Automotive, Housebuilding, and Electronics industries including Real-time 3D configurators. One of which was shortlisted for a Cannes Lion. I currently reside at Oliver agency, where remain hands on, designing day-to-day, working across a broad spectrum of digital disciplines, as well as overseeing creative relationships and developing new AI-powered workflows to generate efficiencies and drive enhancements across our creative output.

Great design moves me. From the micro-interaction to the big idea, I'm motivated by perfection. I've always thought big picture, but learnt early on that in order to stay grounded as a creative, you have to keep focus on your goals and your audience.

I'm also a firm believer that the best ideas are born from collaboration. I've been shuffling pixels for a while, and I've watched digital design tools evolve into collaborative platforms that facilitate a more iterative way of working. I take a collaborative approach to design, balancing creative eureka moments, with scientific research and testing. What gets me out of bed is a desire to make amazing experiences, with awesome people.
